

HUGH A. BURRELL, WELL KNOWN, DEAD

Former President of People's State Bank at Brownstown Succumbs to Bright's Disease.

WAS CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Served For County Official For Many Years—Had Been in Failing Health for Some Time.

Hugh A. Burrell, formerly president of the People's State Bank of Brownstown, died at 4 o'clock this morning after a lingering illness of Bright's disease. He was well known in Brownstown and Jackson county, having served as a public official in several capacities in the county. Mr. Burrell was president of the People's State Bank at the time of its failure and there was considerable surprise when the shortage was made public. It was said that the failure was due very largely to bad investments together with the liberality of the president. A long fight followed to bring Burrell back to this county, but he returned about a year ago, and since that time has been living at Brownstown. The charges against him, however, have never been punished because of his health. There were many people in Jackson county who were opposed to having the proceedings pushed and the cases were continued from term to term.

Mr. Burrell was born on the homestead farm in Brownstown township, this county, on the 21st of August, 1864, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Burrell. His father took up his abode in the year 1832, reclaiming a good farm in the midst of the virgin forest. In 1832 he volunteered his services in connection with the prosecution of the Black Hawk war, joining a regiment raised for the purpose and accompanying Captain Ford on his long marches in pursuit of the crafty Indians. Thirty years later he gave distinctive evidence of his loyalty and valor, when the integrity of the nation was menaced by armed rebellion. In 1862 he was commissioned captain of Company G, Fifty-fourth Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, with which he served three months, receiving an honorable discharge at the expiration of his term. In the following year, when the doughty Morgan made his memorable raid through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, Captain Burrell organized a company at Brownstown and started in pursuit of the famous raider's forces. He joined General Hobson's command, and he was made a brevet colonel of militia and served as such until Morgan was driven from the state. He wielded much influence in local affairs in the early days, having served as trustee of Brownstown township under the old state constitution, and after the adoption of the present constitution he was thrice elected to this office. He served for the long period of fourteen years as county commissioner, finally refusing a renomination to the office in which he done much to further the best interest of the local government and of the people of the county in general. His farm was one of the best in this section of the state. He was a staunch Democrat in politics and both he and his wife held membership in the Presbyterian church, while both had the high regard of all who knew them. He was summoned into eternal rest in 1894, and she passed away in 1892. They became the parents of nine children, of whom two are now living.

Hugh A. Burrell was reared to maturity on the old home farm adjoining Brownstown, and after completing the curriculum of the common schools of the locality he continued to be associated with the work and management of the farm until 1864, when, at the age of nineteen years, he showed his inherent and intrinsic patriotism by tendering his services in defense of the Union. He enlisted as a private in Company G, One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and was mustered in at Indianapolis, this state.

He accompanied his command into Kentucky and Tennessee, where they participated in a number of skirmishes, being for the most of the time assigned to guard duty. At the expiration of his three months term of enlistment Mr. Burrell reenlisted, becoming a member of Company G, One Hundred and Forty-fifth Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and being mustered in at Indianapolis. His regiment was assigned to the Army of the Cumberland, and was sent into Georgia, where he was soon afterwards appointed quartermaster's guard and left his company. He was attacked with a severe illness at Calhoun, just below Resaca, Georgia, and was sent to the hospital in Nashville, Tennessee, where he was later granted a sick furlough and returned home with his father, who had come to his relief. As soon as he had sufficiently recuperated his energies he reported regularly to the military headquarters in Indianapolis, and at the close of the war received his honorable discharge. He remained on the farm until he was convalescent and then in 1866, was matriculated in the Indiana State University, at Bloomington, where he continued his studies for one year. He then became again identified with farm work, and during several winters was engaged in teaching in the schools of his native county during the winter months, assisting in the management of the homestead in the intervening periods.

He was married in 1873, and continued farming one season thereafter, and then served for some time as deputy sheriff of the county after which he gave his attention to railroad contracting for one and one half years, at the expiration of which in 1882 he was elected sheriff of his native county, being chosen as his own successor two years later and thus serving four consecutive years.

He gave a most able administration of the office and his course met with gratifying popular endorsement. Later he became identified with railroading, holding positions in the freight office of a railroad at St. Louis. In 1889 he returned to Brownstown, and was primarily instrumental in the organization of the People's State Bank, of which he served as cashier until 1900. In June of that year he was elected president. He was a member of several fraternal orders. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. P. J. McNeerney and Miss Catherine, of Oklahoma.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at Brownstown.

HOADLEY'S

COMMITTS SUICIDE BY DRINKING ACID

Mrs. William Hall, of Crothersville, Takes Her Own Life Because of Domestic Troubles.

LIVED FOR SEVERAL HOURS

Physician Works With Victim But is Unable to Save Her—Leaves Five Children.

Mrs. William Hall committed suicide at her home in Crothersville about 8:30 o'clock this morning by taking carbolic acid. Domestic trouble is said to have been the cause of her act. She was the wife of William Hall, a blacksmith.

There was no one at the house when she drank the acid, but she was found by the neighbors some time afterwards. A physician was called and worked with the woman for some time, but was unable to save her life. Her mouth and throat were severely burned by the deadly acid.

It is said that Mrs. Hall and her husband had some trouble and that she threatened to kill herself, but her threats were not taken seriously. She left no note and no one was aware that she had carried out her threat until she was found at her home.

She is survived by her husband and five children.

ELSNER ELECTED SENATOR

Returns From Washington County Have Not Been Tabulated.

Because the vote in Washington county has not been tabulated the plurality for Edward P. Elsner for joint senator is not definitely known. There was never a question about the election of Mr. Elsner as he was the candidate from three heavily democratic counties. The district is composed of Jackson, Brown and Washington counties.

The vote in Brown county shows that Mr. Elsner received 875 votes and 300 were cast for James Yoder, republican candidate for joint senator. Washington county gave the state ticket a plurality of about 1,200 and it is believed that Elsner's lead will be practical the same. Mr. Elsner was graduated from the Seymour High School in 1900 and his friends here congratulate him upon his success.

ILLINOIS MAY CHANGE

Wilson Leads With Six Hundred Precincts Still Out.

Chicago, November 7.—With six hundred precincts still to be heard from early today official figures gave Governor Wilson a plurality of 1,590 in Illinois over Roosevelt, and Democratic managers were claiming the state by from 10,000 to 15,000. The same returns gave Dunne (Dem.) 96,527 plurality for Governor, with Deneen (Rep.) second and Fink (Prog.) third in the three-cornered fight. Last night it looked as though Roosevelt would carry Illinois by 10,000 votes.

DEMOCRATS TAKE JUDICIAL TICKET

Oren O. Swails, Dem., Receives a Total of 2719 Votes in Lawrence County.

UNDERWOOD LEADS THE TICKET

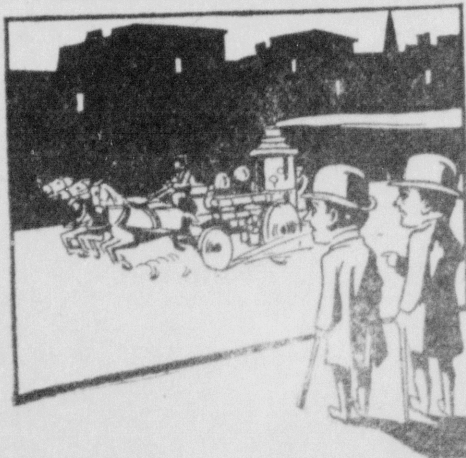

Democrats Elect All Officials in Lawrence With Exception of William H. Sitler, for Sheriff.

With the completion of the canvass of the vote in Lawrence county, the returns show that Oren O. Swails, democratic candidate for judge from the 40th Judicial district, was elected by a plurality of 2711. John H. Underwood, of Bedford, who was candidate for prosecuting attorney from this district on the democratic ticket, was also successful in the election having received a plurality of 3134. The fight for the judicial ticket, which is composed of Jackson and Lawrence counties, was made between the democrats and progressives as the republicans had no candidate in the field.

A count of the vote in Lawrence county gave Swails a total of 2719, while Logan R. Browning, for judge on the progressive ticket, received 2070. Underwood led the ticket in Lawrence county receiving 2893. A. C. Branaman, the progressive candidate for prosecuting attorney, received 1873. In this county Swails received a vote of 3233, while Browning received 1206 votes giving Swails a plurality of 2062. Underwood had a plurality of 2114 over Branaman in this county, the former having received 3228 while the progressive candidate received 114.

Several weeks ago the democrats and progressives of Lawrence county decided to place but one ticket in the field and it was believed that Browning and Branaman would carry that county, but from the result it is evident that quite a number of the voters in either faction failed to support the ticket. The entire democratic ticket was elected in Lawrence county with the exception of William H. Sitler, republican candidate for sheriff, who was elected over Wesley Arthur, democrat, by a plurality of 6. Sitler has served one term as sheriff and has given satisfaction to the people of Lawrence county and it was probably because of his popularity and recognized qualifications for the office that he ran ahead of the other candidates on his ticket.

Since the majority of the voters of the district have decided that the judge shall come from the democratic party, the citizens of Seymour are glad that a local man has been chosen for that position. Mr. Swails is well known in this city and county, as he has practiced law in Seymour for some time. He has served as prosecuting attorney of the Jackson-Scott circuit, but for the past two years has been county attorney. Because of his varied experience with county work he is well qualified for his new position. Mr. Swails is recognized as a good attorney, and his many friends in this county and district regard him as a man who will prove true to his trust and who will make a fair and impartial judge.

TURKS BEATEN AT CONSTANTINOPLE

Reported That They Were Driven Back From the Forts at the Capital After Hard Battle.

RETREAT IN BAD DISORDER

Twenty-five Thousand Kurds Marching Through Asia to Give Assistance to Turkey.

London, November 7.—The Turks were reported today to have been decisively beaten by the Bulgarians and driven in disorder from their positions at the Tehtatja forts in front of Constantinople. The fighting was severe and lasted two days.

The Turkish garrison has withdrawn from Salonica, after destroying a number of bridges forming the approaches to the city, according to a news agency dispatch from Athens.

Twenty-five thousand Kurds today were reported marching through Asia toward Constantinople to aid in resisting the Bulgarians. Though they will be a valuable addition to the shattered army of the Turks, their presence in the sultan's capital will add greatly to the Christian population's peril, since they are almost total barbarians and fanatical followers of the prophet.

BOARD ADJOURNS

Election Commissioners Complete Count About Midnight.

The board of election commissioners completed the canvass of the vote in Jackson county about midnight and adjourned. The last of the returns were filed with the board Wednesday afternoon, but considerable time was required to finish the county. The board was in session continuously since seven o'clock Tuesday night.

It was found that there are quite a few of the voters in Jackson county who do not understand the laws about marking the ballot. In many cases it was found that the voters had marked the cross in the square in front of the first name on the ticket, evidently believing that they had voted the straight straight. A few ballots were thrown out because they were not marked correctly.

Under the law the inspectors are required to file the ballots with the clerk who holds them for a specified length of time. This is done so that they can be recounted in case of any contests. The clerk's office was filled with ballots, those of each precinct having been placed in one bundle. The thirty-four bundles will be filed away by the clerk.

John Cole Dead.

John Cole, aged sixty-three, died Wednesday evening at his home in Crothersville. He had been ill but a short time. He was a retired farmer and was well known in that community. He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter. The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at Crothersville.

LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEER HAS REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE.

I have been thinking that a word from me would benefit those who may be suffering as I was before I began taking your Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. I am a locomotive engineer, employed on the Tyrone & Clearfield Branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Three years ago I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble so bad that I was compelled to lay off duty from my engine and was in the care of two doctors. However their medicine did not benefit me. One day, I noticed your advertisement, to send name and address for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root. At this time my trouble had reached a serious stage. I sent for the sample bottle and in three days received a small bottle of Swamp-Root, which I took according to directions, and by the time I had taken the contents, I could pass water more freely. I was so pleased with my experiment that I sent my wife to the drug store of W. H. Milick, Philipsburg, Pa., and secured a one-dollar bottle. I continued taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root until I was entirely cured. Now whenever I feel any pain or soreness after being exposed to bad weather or hard work, I take a dose or two of Swamp-Root. I cannot recommend this remedy too highly, especially to brother engineers who are more or less troubled with their kidneys (more than any other class of men.)

Yours truly,

T. J. VAN SCOYOC,

Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public, T. J. VanScoyoc, who being duly sworn, doth depose and say that the foregoing statement is true. Sworn and subscribed to before me this 15th day of July, A. D. 1909.

MONASTIR HAS SURRENDERED

Turks Lose Another Stronghold to the Servians.

SALONIKA IS HARD PRESSED

Believing That All Hope of Saving This Important Port Has Vanished, Officers of Turkish Garrison There Are Disguising Themselves as Old Women and Slipping Away, Faces Hidden by Mohammedan Veils.

London, Nov. 7.—It is not believed there will be an immediate attack by the victorious Bulgarians on Tchataldja, the gateway to Constantinople, some English correspondents at Constantinople, whose dispatches are of course censored, say.

It would appear that, considering the distance which the Bulgarian army has to march, it cannot arrive at Tchataldja before the expiration of four or five days. Naturally all preparations are being made in view of the contingency of the Bulgarians refusing mediation and in anticipation of the probability that the Bulgarians will desire to extend as much as possible their sphere of effective occupation down to the moment when the powers have agreed that conditions of peace should be proposed.

A dispatch received here from Rome says that the Turkish stronghold of Monastir surrendered to the Servians at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Reports were also received that the situation for the Turkish garrison at Salonika is most desperate. The army itself is slowly disintegrating, and it is fear of punishment for desertion that holds the rest of it together. Some of the officers, in order to flee without detection, are disguising themselves as old women, and are hobbling out of the city with their faces hidden by Mohammedan veils. The army authorities have tried to check the wholesale desertions without effect and have shot four officers and twenty men whom they caught. The Servians are almost in the outskirts of the city.

With Salonika almost gone and a report that Monastir has fallen, Scutari to the west, Veles, in the center, and Yanina, far to the south, are the only towns left the Turks. Scutari is being hard pressed by the Montenegrins, but the commander of the garrison defending it refuses to believe the news of the Bulgarian victories in the east, and has announced his intention of fighting to the last gasp. There is some sharp skirmishing going on south of Scutari, near the Busate mountains.

If King Ferdinand of Bulgaria really wishes to advance into the Turkish capital it is generally thought that he will be able to do so. The Turks will make their last stand on the lines of Tchataldja. It is thought that the Bulgarians will be able to pierce these lines.

The Bulgarians completely routed the Turks at Choriu and Sarai, killing, wounding or capturing 40,000 Turks, according to a dispatch received from Sofia. The dispatch said that the road to Constantinople is now open.

Athens reports that a Greek squadron has occupied the Turkish island of Tenedos, close to the entrance of the Dardanelles.

VAGARIES OF POLITICS

One of the Surprising Turns Noted in Massachusetts.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Quite the surprising feature of the election, which not only gave the electoral votes of Massachusetts to the Democrats for the first time and elected a Democratic governor and lieutenant governor, is the fact that the legislature is strongly Republican, which means the selection of a Republican as successor to W. Murray Crane as United States senator. Except to say that the Republicans, finding everything else was lost, devoted their energies to saving the legislature, there is no way at present of accounting for this success in the midst of a Democratic landslide. The Republicans will have a majority of fifty-two when the legislature sits in joint session to choose a United States senator. This is a gain for the party over last year.

The congressional delegation stands nine Republicans and seven Democrats, a gain of three Democrats.

Progressives Carry Pennsylvania. Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Colonel Roosevelt carried Pennsylvania for the presidency by at least 25,000. The Republican state ticket, which was in vogue by the Washington party, headed by Robert K. Young and A. W. Powell, won by an even larger vote than the Progressive presidential candidate. The Democrats will have twelve congressmen from this state, a gain of four. The Progressives will have two. One Socialist will be in the legislature. The rest of the thirty-six congressmen are Republicans.

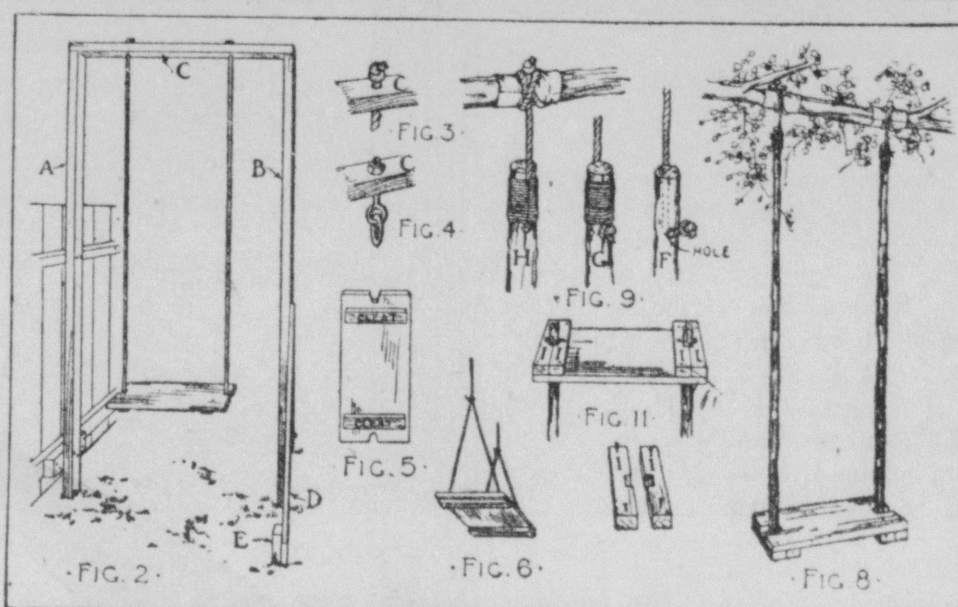

A Blow at Governor Johnson.

San Francisco Nov. 7.—California will give a plurality for Wilson of about 12,000. As the legislature will have at least twenty-five Democratic members, these, with the Taft legislators elected, will form a strong combination that will be able to block any measures introduced by Johnson's machine.

BOYS' HANDICRAFT

By A. NEELY HALL

Author of "Handicraft for Handy Boys" and "The Boy Craftsman"

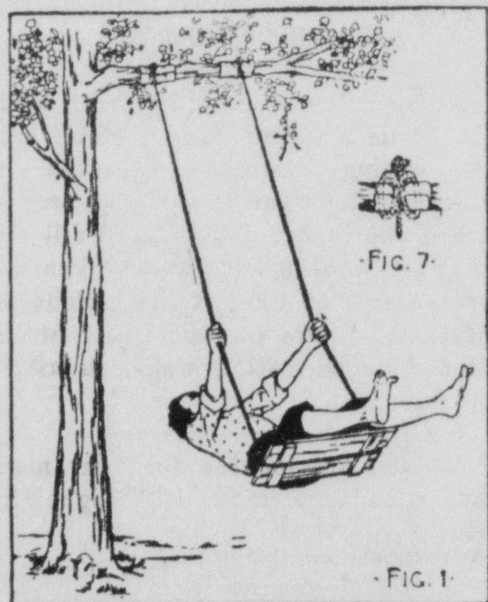

BACK-YARD SWINGS.

A large tree with a spreading limb twenty or twenty-five feet above the ground makes the ideal support for a swing, but in case there isn't a tree at hand, it is an easy matter for a boy to put up a substantial framework such as is shown in Fig. 2, from which to suspend it. Such a framework as this should be built alongside of a fence or shed, so one of the side uprights (A, Fig. 2) can be spiked securely to it. Then it is necessary to brace only the opposite upright (B). Two-by-four-inch stuff is heavy enough for the uprights, and of course the longer you can get them the longer the sweep of the swing will be.

Before putting up the uprights, the top plate (C) should be cut and spiked to their ends. The ropes for the swing should also be fastened to the plate, so as to save the necessity of climbing later, when the framework is in place, to do it. It is well enough to simply bore two holes through the plate, of the size of the rope to be used, and then after slipping the ends of the rope through, to knot them as shown in Fig. 3; but if you can get a couple of ring-bolts, such as shown in Fig. 4, they will make a more ship-shape job; bore the holes for the ring-bolts small enough to make a snug fit. The ropes should be fastened between 24 and 30 inches apart. Manila hemp rope three-fourths inch or one inch in diameter is best, but a doubled hemp clothesline will do if you can get nothing better.

Every boy is familiar with the form of swing seat which is notched at the ends to fit over the rope (Figs. 1, 2 and 5), and this is just as satisfactory a seat as any. It is a good plan to nail a couple of cleats across the underside of the board, if it is wide or of thin wood, to prevent it from splitting along the center. The easiest way to cut the end notches is by first boring an inch hole at the inner end of each hole and then splitting out the wood with a chisel. The rope for this seat is looped from one fastening to the other, in one piece.

A seat attached in the manner shown in Fig. 6 is easier to sit upon, on account of being supported at four corners. The illustration shows how the holes are bored through the seat and cleats, and how the ropes are slipped through the holes and their ends tied in a "bow-line" knot 18 or 20 inches above the seat.

When the swing framework is raised into position, spike the inner upright (A) to the fence or shed wall which is to be used for support, and brace the outer upright (B) with diagonal pieces of board (D) spiked to it and to stakes (E) driven into the ground.

If you fasten the swing ropes to a tree limb, Fig. 1 and the detail drawing, Fig. 7, show how the ends should be tied with a "clove hitch." Be sure to wrap some heavy cloth, such as potato sacking, burlap or pieces of carpet, around the tree limb, before passing the rope around it, to protect the bark from injury.

Long, straight poles may be used instead of ropes. If you live near the woods, you can easily get a couple of poles of the right size; if not, perhaps you can get two rug poles, which will serve equally well. Bore a three-fourths-inch or one-inch hole through each pole about eight inches from one end, and, after knotting the end of a piece of three-fourths-inch or one-inch rope four or five feet in length, slip it through the hole and pull the knotted end tight against the pole (F, Fig. 9); then bind the rope to the pole by wrapping with heavy cord, as shown at G (Fig. 9). The free end of the rope should be secured to the tree branch with a "clove hitch" (H, Fig. 9), or to crosspiece C of the framework as shown in Fig. 3. The ends of the board seat are notched to fit around the poles, and the cleats I (Fig. 10) are notched and nailed, or screwed, to the under side of the swing seat, with the notches fitted around the poles as shown in Fig. 11. To keep the seat from slipping off of the end of the poles, drive a bolt, large spike or metal pin of some kind through a hole bored through each pole directly under the bottom of the cleats I, (Fig. 11).

MUST HAVE PROPER SLEEP

Mother of School Child Should Insist on This as Matter of Highest Importance.

The mother who has a child at school may not be able to help him with his lessons—for the modern system of teaching rather depreciates home assistance, I believe, but there is one thing she can do for him which will benefit him even more, and that is to see that he gets enough sleep.

It is only lately that physicians have been emphasizing the need of sleep for children. Insufficient sleep affects the nerves, the temper, the digestion, the mental quickness and even the morals of children. The child who gets enough sleep is the one who is bright and quick mentally, who grows normally and well, who eats properly and who is not peevish and irritable.

An early supper and an early bedtime are the things for the school child. Then put him in a well ventilated bedroom and let him have ten or eleven full hours of slumber, and he'll wake up bright and healthy and good, too.

Many of the little whining, nervous children we see are simply suffering from lack of sleep. Many small naughtinesses simply come from tired nerves and weariness of mind and body. So many mothers notice such a difference in the behavior of children once they have started to school and are at a loss to understand the reason. It is because the daily nap which the child took before he went to school has been given up, but the bedtime hour has not been changed. Consequently the nerves of the child suffer.

Try giving the school child supper at half-past five, a nourishing and easily digested supper, too. Then at eight, promptly pack him off to bed. If he doesn't sleep let him sip a cup of hot milk, and sit beside him until he droves off. Sleep is a largely acquired habit and will be easily acquired in a few evenings. And, oh, the difference it will make to the child in every way.—Exchange.

Stutterer Holds Up Court.

When Hugo Greysmuhl was arraigned in the Milwaukee District court, on the charge of having stolen $6 from a companion in a saloon, the first question, and albeit the only question, propounded to him by the court, was as to his age. For several minutes Hugo was unable to reply. Finally, when the patience of the court was well nigh exhausted, he managed to articulate:

"I-I st-st-st-u-t-t-er, j-judge, and c-c-e-a-a-n h-a-r-d-h-a-r-d-l-y e-v-e-v-v-e-r t-t-t-t-e-h o-w I a-m, b-b-b-e-b-e-c-c-a-u-s-e I'm g-g-g-r-o-w-i-n-g w-h-w-h-i-l-e I t-t-t-talk."

Five minutes later, while the attorneys were arguing, Hugo interrupted their flood of oratory with the remark: "T-t-t-t-w-e-n-t-y t-t-t-t-h-r-e-e, j-j-j-judge."

"That's a hard age to have, my boy," replied the court. "I think about six months in the house of correction will do for you."

"B-b-b-b-u-t, j-j-j-judge—"

"You can finish that remark when you get out," snapped the court. "Call the next case."—New York Telegram.

Shave in London.

District Attorney Whitman, apropos of the Rosenthal case, compared a bungling detective's method to a London barber.

"You know the London barber?" said the district attorney. "In lathering your face he makes no effort to steer clear of your mouth. He slaps on the lather without any idea of keeping your lips clear. You must compress them tight against that white storm, and even then!"

"I once saw an American in a bond street barber shop dig a pint of solid white lather out of his mouth with a towel. Then he said in a strangled voice:

"You needn't bother to clean my teeth for me, old man."—St. Paul Dispatch.

OHIO'S SLUMP AMAZES POLITICAL OBSERVERS

Nothing Like It Since Franklin Pierce's Day.

Cincinnati, Nov. 7.—Ohio has not given to the Democrats in more than fifty years so stupendous a majority as was polled Tuesday. Wilson's plurality over Taft will be about 115,000, and Taft's plurality over Roosevelt will be about 80,000.

Congressman Cox, governor-elect, wins with an equal majority over General R. B. Brown, the Republican candidate, and Garford, the Progressive candidate, will poll about 60,000. So completely did Wilson, at the head of the national ticket, and Congressman James M. Cox, the candidate for governor, snow their opponents under in this, the home state of President Taft, that the president even lost his home county.

The Democrats are supreme in power in all the state offices, both branches of the general assembly, and have elected a majority of the congressmen, including the first congressman-at-large to be elected in Ohio. Of the twenty-one congressmen, but five are Republicans the rest Democrats. Congressman Nicholas Longworth, son-in-law of Colonel Roosevelt, has been returned to congress by a majority of about 1,000. It is the first time since Franklin Pierce defeated General Winfield Scott, fifty-six years ago, that Ohio has been swept into the Democratic electoral college in complete form.

FOR THE FIRST TIME

Rhode Island Gives Its Electoral Vote to a Democrat.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 7.—For the first time since the organization of the Republican party in 1854, a Democratic candidate for president has carried the state. Wilson's vote in Tuesday's election was 30,299, while Taft received 27,755 and Roosevelt 16,488.

Rhode Island will be represented in the lower house at Washington by two Democrats and one Republican. The Republicans elected Governor Pothier for a fifth term, a record unparalleled in the history of the state.

The Republicans retain control of the general assembly and will elect a United States senator in January to succeed Senator Wetmore. Judge B. L. Colt of Providence has been endorsed by the party and will undoubtedly be the next senator from Rhode Island.

West Virginia Splits Its Vote.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 7.—Wilson carried West Virginia by about 40,000, with Taft and Roosevelt running neck and neck for second honors. Dr. H. D. Hatfield, Republican, was elected governor by about 15,000 and the remainder of the Republican state ticket, including the congressman-at-large, has been elected. Four out of five district congressmen have been elected by the Republicans, with the fifth in doubt. The legislature will be Republican on joint ballot and will elect a Republican to succeed United States Senator C. W. Watson. The prohibition amendment has been ratified by a majority of more than 50,000.

Roosevelt Carries Minnesota.

Minneapolis, Nov. 7.—Roosevelt carries Minnesota by about 10,000 votes.

GOVERNOR WILSON TO RETAIN PRESENT JOB

Will Not Resign Until It Becomes Necessary.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 7.—It is practically assured that when Governor Wilson resigns his present office to become president of the United States his mantle as governor of New Jersey will fall upon Senator James F. Fielder of Hudson county. This presupposes that in the meantime Senator Fielder will have been elected president of the senate, a position which carries with it the acting governorship in the event of the death, resignation, disability or absence of the governor.

Should Governor Wilson, for any unforeseen reason, relinquish his position before the organization of the legislature on Jan. 14 next, he would be succeeded by President John D. Prince of the senate, a Republican, who has been sworn in as acting governor fifteen times during the temporary absence of the governor from the state. Eliminating all other considerations therefore, there are ample political reasons for the governor continuing to serve until the state shall have passed into full control of the Democrats. It is the governor's intention to serve not merely until the legislature convenes, but until a few days before his inauguration, which will cover a good part of the legislative session. In that time the governor is expected to make all the important appointments for the ensuing year, so that his successor will have a comparatively easy time for the remainder of the unexpired term which ends in January, 1914.

Even Kansas Is Democratic.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 7.—Wilson has carried Kansas over Roosevelt by about 20,000. Thompson, Democratic, is chosen for United States senator over Stubbs, Republican Progressive, by 60,000. The legislature will be Democratic on joint ballot.

Kenyon's Seat Seems Safe.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 7.—Though Wilson has a plurality of over 10,000, the state legislature is apparently Republican by a small majority, which will insure the re-election of Senator W. S. Kenyon.

THE PARTY IS NOT DEAD.

The attention of pessimistic Republicans is invited to an episode in the career of the party which swept the country Tuesday. There was a far more dangerous rupture in the Democratic party in 1860 than the Republican party has encountered in 1912. With rival tickets, headed by Douglas and Breckenridge, respectively, in the field in 1860, the Democratic party was split on a sectional line, and the feud which was started in the rival factions of the party precipitated the rebellion which convulsed the country for four years, and which covered the Democracy with a load of discredit from which it did not emerge for a quarter of a century.

In 1864 the Democratic party carried only three states. Its presidential candidate, McClellan, won only 21 electoral votes, as compared with 212 for Lincoln. In 1868 and 1872 its vote was so small that that party was never really in the contest at all. It rallied in 1876, under the lead of its most adroit chieftain, Tilden, a member of Van Buren's old Albany regency, but it did not gain the presidency. In 1880 it was beaten once more. In half a century it has elected only one man to the presidency, and that man, in his second term, split his party in such a way that it has been in the minority for twenty years, or until the election yesterday.

The Republican party will make a new stride forward in the congressional campaign of 1914, and in 1916 it will be decidedly and emphatically at the front with its old-time vigor.—Globe Democrat.

SUPERINTENDENTS' MEETING

J. A. Linke of This City Chairman of Committee on Reports.

Industrial education will be the principal subject considered at the twenty-third annual meeting of the Indiana Association of City and Town Superintendents, which began at Indianapolis and will continue until Saturday. The session will be held at the Claypool Hotel.

Members of the commission on industrial and agricultural education, appointed by the 1911 General Assembly, will make reports. The question will be summed up in a lecture by C. A. Prosser of New York, secretary of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, tomorrow evening.

The first session will begin at 8 o'clock this evening and Edwin G. Cooley of Chicago, former superintendent of the Chicago schools, will lecture on "The Way in Which the Germans Have Dealt With the Problem Which is Facing Indiana."

The state committee's investigations will be reported tomorrow morning in fifteen-minute speeches by John A. Lapp, referee librarian; State Senator Will Varling of Shelbyville, John G. Brown of Monon, Frank Duffy of Indianapolis, John L. Ketcham of Indianapolis, Frank L. McElroy of Hammond, U. G. Weatherly of Indiana University and Superintendent Thomas G. Fitzgibbon of Columbus. At that session George I. Christie of Purdue University will talk on "Why the Farmer Favors Agricultural Education."

Tomorrow afternoon the superintendent will discuss the report from their point of view as active school men. The speakers at that session will be Superintendent J. N. Study of Fort Wayne, Milo H. Stuart, principal of Manual Training High School; Superintendent W. A. Myers of Hartford City and Superintendent E. C. Jerman of Greensburg.

The closing session Saturday morning will be devoted to reports of the special committees on uniform reports, preparation for high school teachers and adaptability and suitability of uniform textbooks in Indiana. These committees are headed by J. A. Linke of Seymour, J. B. Fagan of Bedford and H. G. Brown of Lebanon, respectively.

Superintendent Linke, as chairman of the uniform report committee, has been working on several forms which he will present to the superintendents of the state for their approval. One report provides the manner in which the teachers shall report to the superintendent as to attendance and other school figures. Another is arranged for the principal or superintendent in reporting to college and universities regarding any pupil who desires to enter college. Heretofore the reports have been made in various ways and no uniform system was used.

IS IT POSSIBLE?

Unusually Large Demand For Soup Bones Wednesday.

There was an unusually large demand for soup bones from the local butchers Wednesday, and a number of people are wondering if the election of Woodrow Wilson and the assurance of the democratic administration had anything to do with the demand. For a number of years a democratic national administration has been synonymous with the word soup and several persons have given their opinion that the people who purchased the soup bones desired to get in the habit of eating soup while the times were yet prosperous.

One man who went to one of the meat shop early Wednesday morning to purchase a soup bone said that while he was waiting for his order to be filled, orders for six others came in over the telephone. It is also said that a number of other meat shops supplied an unusually large number of soup bones to their customers yesterday. One man gave his opinion that the people had been in the habit of eating turkey, chicken and steak under the republican administration and fearing that they would be unable to serve these meats upon their tables during the next four years decided to start in early with the soup diet so that the change would not be so hard for them later on when they would be compelled to live upon soup alone.

Ely's Cream Balm, which is applied to the nostrils or rubbed on the throat or chest gets right at the root of the trouble and instantly relieves even the worst case of catarrh or cold. A few minutes after applied you can feel a loosening up in the head, the pain and soreness are gone, the sense of taste, smell and hearing come back, and you feel like a different person.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, heals and strengthens inflamed membranes, takes away that stuffed up feeling and dull pain in the head, relieves the throat soreness and stops the nasty discharge which is the cause of the disgusting hawking, spitting, blowing of the nose, and foul breath. Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged. This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the well known liquid eczema remedy, oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription. We have sold other remedies for skin troubles but none that we can recommend as highly as this for we know that D.D.D. stops the itch at once. We just want you to give D.D.D. a trial. That will be enough to prove it. Of course all other druggists have D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but don't accept some big profit substitute. But if you come to our store, we are so certain of what D.D.D. will do for you that we offer you a full size bottle on this guarantee:—If you do not find that it takes away the itch AT ONCE, it costs you not a cent.

CHAPTER VII. An Old Perfume.

FOR nine years Stuart had refused to see or speak to Nan. He met Bivens as a matter of course, but always downtown during business hours or at one of his clubs. For the first year Nan had resented his attitude in angry pride and remained silent. And then she began to do a curious thing which had grown to be a part of his inmost life. For the past eight years she had written a brief daily diary recording her doings, thoughts and memories which she mailed to him every Sunday night. She asked no reply and he gave none. No names appeared in its story and no name was signed to the dainty sheets of paper which always bore the perfume of wild strawberries. But the man who read them in silence knew and understood.

The letter from her he held today was not an unsigned sheet of her diary. It was a direct, personal appeal, tender and beautiful in its sincerity. She begged him to forget the past because she needed his friendship and advice, and asked that he come to see her at once.

This letter was his first temptation to break the resolution by which he had lived for years.

He rose and paced the room with fury as he began to realize how desperate was his desire to go.

"Have I fought all these years for nothing?" he cried.

The thing that drew him with all but resistless power was the deeper meaning between the lines. He knew that each day the incompleteness of her life had been borne in upon her with crushing force. And yet he felt, by an instinct deeper than reason, that the day he returned from his exile and touched her hand would mark the beginning of a tragedy for both.

In the past nine years he had thrown his life away only to find it in greater power. The first year which he had given of unselfish devotion to the service of the people had been a failure, but at the end of four years he was nominated for district attorney and was swept into office by a large majority. The enforcement of justice ceased to be a joke and became a living faith.

His work had stirred the state to a nobler and cleaner civic life. During the past year he had become one of the foremost figures in American Democracy—the best loved and the most hated and feared man in public life in New York. He asked no favors; he sought no preferment.

The work on which he had just entered was an investigation before an unusually intelligent grand jury of the criminal acts of a group of the most daring and powerful financiers of the world. When he realized the magnitude of the task he had undertaken he at once put his house in order for the supreme effort. It was necessary that he give up every outside interest that might distract his attention from the greater task.

The one matter of grave importance to which he was giving his time outside his office was his position as advisory counsel to Dr. Woodman in his suit for damages against the chemical trust, which had been dragging its course through the courts for years. To his amazement he had just received an offer from Bivens' attorneys to compromise this suit for $100,000. He would of course advise the doctor to accept it immediately. He had never believed he could win a penny.

What could be Bivens' motive in making such an offer? It was impossible that the shrewd little president of the American Chemical company had anything to fear personally from this attack. His fortune now could not be less than $40,000,000, and the issue of such a suit as the one Woodman had brought and on which he had spent so much of his time and money was to Bivens a mere bagatelle. It might be Nan—it must be! Her letter surely made the explanation reasonable. She knew this suit was an obstacle in the way of their meeting.

During the past winter she had become the sensation of the metropolis. Her wealth, her beauty, her palaces and her entertainments had made her the subject of endless comment. She had set a pace for extravagance which made the old leaders stand agape. Her worldly wise mother had been dead for the past five years.

He was waiting the arrival of Woodman for a conference over Bivens' offer of compromise, and he dreaded the we named, eh?" the doctor asked in triumph.

"I assure you that if the case comes to its final test you are certain to lose." "So you have said again and again, my boy," was the good natured reply, "but his sudden terror and this offer show that we have won already, and he knows it. Bivens has seen the handwriting on the wall. When the American people are once aroused their wrath will sweep the trusts into the bottomless pit."

"Bivens isn't worrying about the people or their wrath."

"Then it's time he began," the doctor cried. "Mark my word, the day of the common people has dawned. This mud sill of the world has learned to read and write and begun to think. He will never be content again until he turns the world upside down."

"But you must consider this offer. You have too much at stake. Your factory has been closed for five years. Your store has been sold, your business ruined, and you are fighting to pay the interest on your debts. I've seen you growing poorer daily until you have turned your home into a lodging house and filled it with strangers."

"I've enjoyed knowing them. My sympathies have been made larger."

"But is this battle yours alone, doctor? You are but one among millions. You are trying to bear the burden of all. Have you counted the cost? Harriet's course in music will continue two years longer. The last year she must spend abroad. Her expenses will be great. This settlement is a generous one, no matter what Bivens' motive."

"I can't compromise with a man who has crushed my business by a conspiracy of organized blackmail."

"Oh, come, come, doctor, talk common sense! You were not ruined by blackmail. You were crushed by a law of progress as resistless as the law of gravity."

"If the law of gravity is unjust it will be abolished. I can't compromise with Bivens. I refuse his generosity. I'll take only what the last tribunal of the people shall give me—justice."

"The last tribunal of the people will give you nothing," the lawyer said emphatically.

"I'll stand or fall with it. I make common cause with the people. I know that Bivens is a power now. He chooses judges, defies the law, bribes legislatures and city councils and imagines that he rules the nation. But the Napoleons of finance today will be wearing stripes in Sing Sing tomorrow. A despotism of money can not be fastened on the people of America. Only a few years ago a great millionaire who lived in a palace on Fifth Avenue boldly said to a newspaper reporter, 'The public be damned. Times have changed. The millionaires have begun to buy the newspapers and beg for public favor. We are walking on the crust of a volcano of public wrath. I am content to live and fight for the right, win or lose, and play my little part in this mighty drama.'"

"I had hoped you were tired of fighting a losing battle."

"I'll fight this battle to a finish and I'll win. If God lives I'll win—I'm so sure of it, my boy."

The doctor paused and his eyes flashed.

"I'm so sure of it that I'm not only going to refuse this bribe from Bivens, but my answer will be a harder blow. I'm going to begin another bigger and more important suit for the dissolution of the American chemical trust."

Stuart slipped his arm around the older man with a movement of instinctive tenderness.

"Look here, doctor, I've lived in your home for fourteen years and I've grown to love you as my own father. You must listen to me now. I can give no time to your suit. I am just entering on a great struggle for the people. Tremendous issues are at stake."

"You'll go down a wreck if you fail."

"Perhaps, but it's my duty."

"Good boy," the older man cried, seizing Stuart's hand. "You can't fail. That's why I'm going to risk all in my fight."

"But the cases are not the same."

"No, I'm old and played out—my life's sands are nearly run. I haven't much to risk—but such as I have I offer it freely to God and my country. I envy you the opportunity to make a greater sacrifice—and you advise me to compromise for a paltry sum of money a righteous cause merely to save my own skin. I'm proud of you—proud that you live in my house, and that I've seen you and loved you, and that you will do the right thing."

"So the little vessel has offered to compromise my suit for half the sum foolishness of throwing your life away!"

With a wave of his hand the stalwart figure of the old man passed out and left him brooding in sorrowful silence.

He seized his pen at last, set his face like flint and resolutely wrote his answer:

Dear Nan—Your letter is very kind. I'll be honest and tell you that it has stirred memories I've tried to kill and can't hate to say no, but I must. Sincerely, JIM

On the night following Stuart worked late in his office developing his great case. He was disappointed in the final showing of the evidence to be presented to the grand jury. His facts were not as strong as he expected to make them.

At 10 o'clock he quit work and hurried home to refresh his tired spirit with Harriet's music. As he hurried up the steps he nearly collided with a handsome young fellow just emerging from the door. He was dressed well, and he had evidently been calling on some one—perhaps on Harriet.

Stuart let himself in softly and started at the sight of Harriet's smiling face in the parlor doorway. His worst fears were confirmed. She was dressed in a dainty evening gown and had evidently enjoyed her visitor.

Stuart pretended not to notice the fact and asked her to play. As he sat dreaming and watching the rhythmic movement of her delicate hands he began to realize at last that his little pal, stub nosed, red haired and free kled, had silently and mysteriously grown into a charming woman. She was twenty-four now, in the pride and glory of perfect young womanhood, and yet she had no lovers. He wondered why. Her music, of course, it had been the one absorbing passion of life. And her eyes had always sparkled with deep joy at his slightest word of praise. For the first time it had occurred to him as an immediate possibility that she might marry and their lives drift apart.

A sweet comradeship had grown between them. He resented the idea of a break in their relations. Yet why should he? What rights had he over her life? Absolutely none, of course. Who was that fellow? Where had he met him before?

He rose with a sudden frown. Sure as fate—the very boy—the tall, dreamy looking youngster who danced with her so many times that night ten years ago at his birthday party! She said he was too frail—that her prince must be strong. Well, confound him, he had got strong.

Stuart said, with a studied indifference:

"Tell me, little pal, who was that tall young fellow I ran into on the steps?"

"Why, don't you remember my frail young admirer of long ago?"

"Do you love him, girlie?"

"When I was very, very young, I thought I did. It makes me laugh now. It's wonderful how much we can outgrow, isn't it?"

"I just don't like him, and I don't want you to like him. You see, little pal, I'm your guardian."

"Are you?"

"Yes. And I'm giving you due legal notice that you have no right to marry without my consent—you promise to make me your confidant?"

A soft laugh, full of tenderness and joy, came from the girl as she turned her eyes upward for the first time:

"All right, guardie, I'll confer with you on that occasion."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.

"Smile."

"Do not worry."

In these two slogans is condensed the gist of much modern teaching. And it is wholesome doctrine. I myself have preached it, in season and out, for years.

There is no doubt it helps wonderfully to sit up and look pleasant. It helps to think cheerful thoughts and to refuse to worry, especially when there is no good reason for doing otherwise.

But—

There's another side. Smile as much as you may try, cease to worry as much as you can, nevertheless griefs will come into every life.

For mind you—

Although you shut your eyes and deny them, there are such things in the world as pain and sorrow and sickness and bereavement and sin.

Let's face the fact.

Life has its disappointments and mistakes and sighing and suffering and sinning. And—

If it were not so it is sure we should not so keenly enjoy our triumphs and laughter and success. You cannot appreciate the light unless you know the darkness. Half our joys are because of the contrast.

We grow tired even of plum pudding if served three times a day. The best things become monotonous.

Down in the African jungles there are sunshine and smiles and optimism and Don't Worry clubs, but there is very little doing. In the temperate zone men's toes are tingled by the frosts into activity.

We weary of eternal sunshine. Rasselas got tired of the Happy Valley and Tom Sawyer of his cave. Jerushan waxed fat and then made a kick about his prosperous proportions.

Even optimism palls.

Smile if possible under all circumstances and do not worry unless there is great necessity.

But—

If your grief is too deep for smiling, if care and worry and sorrow get a real grip upon you, remember in the midst of your grief that there is good in grieving. And that though the night may be long and grievous—"Joy cometh in the morning."

EDWARD A. REMY, P. M.

Is your husband cross? An irritable, fault finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by all dealers. Advertisement.

Cultivate Tact.

A great many of the women who complain of having had no opportunity to get ahead in this world owe their misfortune to their lack of tact.

Tact is a wonderful quality to possess. It will sometimes carry you farther than brains—just such a little thing as being able to present a smooth excuse for somebody else's temper. Tact will keep you firmly by the side of a big man or a big woman on their way up the ladder when a pretty face will fall you.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers. Advertisement.

SOME SEASONABLE SOUPS.

When the housewife is considering what to serve in the way of soups her mind now turns to the late vegetables available for the purpose. Beets, carrots, celery, potatoes, late tomatoes, onions, turnips, cabbages and cauliflowers are among the availables in fresh vegetables.

Two Delicious Soups.

Cream of Beet Soup.—Take four bunches of selected blood beets, pare, grate and strain through a sieve. Then put on the fire and scald them. Boil a pint of sweet milk and add it to the beets. Stir in a tablespoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of sifted flour, two tablespoonfuls of butter, a little cream and a sprinkle of pepper. Stir these slowly into the soup until it is as thick as cream.

Cream of Celery Soup.—Take a bunch of celery, a quart of milk, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful and a half of salt, a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Select the outside stalks of celery, clean, cut into half inch lengths and take a quart and a half of these, cover with cold water and cook until tender. Drain and mash the celery through a wire strainer. Take the water in which the celery was cooked, the strained celery and add to the milk, which has been boiled in the top of a double boiler. Rub the flour and butter together and work into a smooth paste with a little cold milk. Add this to the soup, then add the salt and pepper. Boil one minute, strain through a fine strainer and serve.

Rich, Yet Inexpensive.

Cream of Carrot Soup.—Take four carrots, a quart of milk, a tablespoonful each of butter, finely chopped onion, flour, chopped parsley a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of white pepper. Wash and scrape the carrots, cut into pieces, cover with boiling water, add the teaspoonful of salt and boil until tender. Drain and mash. Put the milk on in the upper part of a double boiler. As soon as it boils add the carrot. Put the butter and onion in a frying pan, cook one minute, then add the flour and one cupful of the water the carrots were cooked in. Stir until smooth and creamy, then stir into the milk. Season with salt and pepper, cook three minutes, strain through a wire strainer and add the chopped parsley.

Anna Thompson.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of LaVonia, Ga. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory." For sale by all dealers. Advertisement.

First Electric Railways.

As early as 1835 electric locomotives were the subject of experiments, and at that period rude electric engines were tried at Brandon, Vt., and Aberdeen, Scotland. The first real trolley line was built in Berlin in 1879. The first city traction system to be electrified was that of Richmond, Va., in February, 1888. This was speedily followed by overhead trolley systems in Baltimore, Kansas City, Toronto and Boston.
